HRH does not submit personal expenses claims for official visits which are made on behalf of the FCO. Hospitality is usually offered by HRH's hosts who also sometimes offer accommodation. When HRH stays in hotels on official travel, these costs (and the costs of his team, not including Personal Protection Officers) are covered by the FCO.

In relation to point 2 of your request, we do not hold information on air travel for official overseas visits as this is organised by the Royal Household. Costs are met by the Royal travel grant in aid which is administered by the Department for Transport. The annual reports can be found at www.royal.gov.uk.
